

Editorial: My Hero

I am a big fan of bicycle road racing, especially the magnificent Tour de France, and I feel Lance Armstrong is one of greatest athletes of this or any other generation. He has accomplished things in the Tour and in his private life that have been an inspiration to everyone who appreciates not only sports competition but a heroic character. I do not ride competitively, but I have a nice ten-speed bicycle. It is a Raleigh Grand Prix, one of the rare ones made in Enid, Oklahoma, back when Raleigh had a plant there. Lately though, it has been gathering dust on the back porch because my partner cannot ride, and I won't go without her.

My wife and colleague ElGenia discovered a lump during a breast self-exam in November 2001. On Christmas Eve that year, she had a mammogram done and on New Year's Eve, she had a biopsy done. The news was mixed. It was a very small tumor, slow growing, but it was malignant. She had a successful lumpectomy in mid January 2002, followed by intensive weekly radiation treatments throughout the spring. She continued to teach all spring in spite of the severe radiation burns she gradually accumulated. The summer of 2002 was very pleasant. Swimming is her best sport, and the water helped her recover from the radiation, as she taught summer school. Normally a person who had walked four miles a day, a routine we had done since the early 1980s, she could now but bravely make about a fourth of that. Her walking grew progressively worse in the fall, seemingly linked to her chronic arthritis. However, during a CE trip at the end of October, she found the pain too great to continue. Her arthritis doctor, a brilliant diagnostician, ordered some special imaging although everything, including blood work, pointed only to arthritis. To this day, I will never forget that Friday at five o'clock when the Radiologist at Saints came out and said that the reason she could not walk was because she had a fractured right pelvis, and the reason for the fracture, he thought, was metastatic bone cancer.

He was right. Her oncologist from the breast cancer episode placed her in Mercy the next Monday, and they began a week of testing and imaging. It was breast cancer metastasis to to the bone, all right, and even my untrained eyes could see on X-ray the fracture big enough to drive a truck through. For the first time, she did not return to the classroom. She stayed home that November and December while she journeyed to the City, first for intensive radiation again and then chemotherapy to begin after the first of the year. In January, while preparing for the weekly chemotherapy that was to last all spring 2003, she returned to the classroom. The chemo was rough, but she endured it. As she lost her hair, she laughed and said it was easier to take care of. She never stopped teaching. She arranged her schedule so that she would teach in the morning and rest in the afternoon.

After the chemo ended, she was placed on hormonal therapy for the ever-present cancer and bone builders for the fractured pelvis. She did and continues to do everything from a wheelchair, and we bought a little electric scooter to use between buildings. We became used to the routine of monthly doctor visits and IV's, and the swimming in the summer of 2003 strengthened her. Fall 2003 was busy for all of us because we were down faculty, but ElGenia never let up a bit as she did her part. In the spring of 2004, her right leg was causing her pain that she knew was different. Her arthritis doctor once again came through when he ordered some intensive imaging and tests in May, although her tumor marker said there should not be any cancer activity. There was, of course, activity, this time in her right femur, and as summer school started, she completed a series of radiation treatments. She started summer school 2004 on time and in the classroom. OK, some of you probably have similar stories about yourself or a loved one, and I can tell you that you certainly learn something about bravery, strength of character, and yes, competitive spirit when you witness something like this up close and personal. You learn that there are a lot of things in life that are simply not important, and maybe, in the end, that relationships are the only things that do matter. —And most definitely, you learn who the real heroes are. ---wbf

THE SIG – 2004 A message from Dr. David Bergman, Dean of the College of Pharmacy

This issue of THE SIG provides an update on a variety of new endeavors that have occurred in the "College of Pharmacy". The primary events included a major reorganization of SWOSU, the remodeling of several pharmaceutical care laboratories, the completion of the NTPD Program, and the recruitment of several new SWOSU faculty for the clinical pharmacy component of the Pharm.D. professional program.

SWOSU has reorganized its academic structure. The previous "Schools" have been renamed as "Colleges" and several schools have been consolidated into one college. SWOSU at Weatherford is now composed of the College of Arts & Sciences, College of Professional & Graduate Studies, and College of Pharmacy. The College of Professional & Graduate Studies will have the School of Business, School of Education, several programs previously in the School of Arts & Sciences, as well as the School of Allied Health Sciences and the School of Nursing. In addition, the Department of Pharmacy Practice has relocated in the area of St. Anthony Hospital and the new telephone number is 405-601-2484.

The initial phase of the remodeling of the CPP Building has been completed. The primary features include a Student Center, which has new computers & wireless access, study areas, and general seating for students. In addition, there are new faculty offices, an updated research laboratory, and remodeled classrooms. During the 2003-2004 academic year, two Pharmaceutical Care laboratories were remodeled. These labs, which have been known for many years as the "Preps Labs", have new fixtures and contemporary technology. The curricular content continues to emphasize traditional modern pharmacy practice in the areas of dispensing and supervision of the dispensing process, compounding, patient counseling, and applications of new technologies. In this issue of THE SIG, information is provided regarding the location to view a film produced by Dr. Benny French, which describes this project. The majority of the classrooms will be remodeled during the Fall 2004 semester, and a historical museum will be constructed. The final phase of the project will include the administrative area. The exact timing for this phase will be dependent on the SWOSU schedule as well as funding and is unknown at this time.

The NTPD or Alternate Pathway Pharm.D. Program, a nontraditional professional doctorate conducted in concert with the University of Oklahoma College of Pharmacy, was completed at the end of the Spring 2004 semester.

During the year 2004, the Pharm.D. class, admitted from a qualified application pool of 623 individuals in the spring, summer, and fall semesters, currently consists of 44 women and 39 men, who had an entrance mean GPA of 3.45, ACT of 25.2, PCAT of 75%, and an average age of 23 years. The application pool for the 2004 year has been significantly more competitive and this appears to be a trend for the next several years. There will be approximately 80 graduates from the Pharm.D. program during 2005. The pass rate on the NAPLEX for graduates of the SWOSU College of Pharmacy continues to be above the national average.

Since the last issue of THE SIG, several new faculty members have joined the College of Pharmacy. Dr. Erin Callen (Pharm.D., SWOSU) is based at St. Anthony Hospital in OKC. Dr. Kristin Harrison (Pharm.D.,SWOSU) is based at Integris South Hospital in OKC. Dr. Brian Murray (Pharm.D.,SWOSU) will be at the VA Clinic at Fort Sill in Lawton. Dr. Nancy T. Williams (Pharm.D.,U. of Michigan) will be at Norman Regional Hospital. Ms. Linda France is a part-time faculty member supervising students at pharmacy practice sites in the Tulsa area. During the next year, the College of Pharmacy will be searching for full-time faculty replacements in Pharmaceutical Sciences.

The College of Pharmacy website is available as part of the SWOSU website and provides additional information on most of the topics included in this update. The Southwestern Pharmacy Alumni Foundation website is available at http://www.southwesternpharmacy.com/.

As stated in previous updates, the College of Pharmacy has undergone many changes and continues to make many modifications. Although the College of Pharmacy will and must adapt to these alterations, the traditions that have made the SWOSU College of Pharmacy well respected have been retained and are expressed through our faculty, students and alumni.

Pharmaceutics II Lab Redone

Virtually all students who have graduated since 1963 remember the Pharmaceutics Lab at the head of the third floor stairs. Depending on when one graduated, it was the home of labs variously known as Dispensing Lab, Preps III Lab, Pharmaceutics II Lab, or Pharm Care II Lab. The labs housed there were taught by Dr. Keller and James Jones in the 1970s, and by Dr. Reichmann during the 1980-2000s. The lab had remained in essentially the same physical state as when it was first constructed in 1963. Dr. Reichmann supervised the installation of a computer-assisted filling system in the 1980s. However, the lab still had the original cabinetry, phone system, and fixtures. With the renovation of the Chemistry/Pharmacy/Physics building, it was only a matter of time before it would be re-worked. As the Fall, 2003 semester ended, Southwestern staff (headed by Rick Skinner) began the long process. The lab and back office were gutted to the bare walls, ceiling and concrete floor. The existing door to the lab was sealed, and another door became the only entrance. The door to the back office was shifted from the north to the south side of the lab. A wall in the back office was removed, enhancing storage space. Southwestern personnel built cabinetry; student drawers were installed by the company from which they were purchased. The computer system was redesigned with the help of Department Head Michael Deimling, and features flat screen monitors and laser printers. Each student has his/her own computer station. The effect is similar to Dr. Shelly Prince's recently re-designed lab.

The renovation follows a re-working of the lab's exercises. Many aspects of the lab continue to feature the successful practices that have made it a model for other dispensing labs across the nation. Dr. Reichmann presided over most of those critical innovations during the 1980s and 1990s. Upon Dr. Reichmann's retirement in Spring of 2003, Dr. Pray assumed responsibility for the lab. One of his first tasks was to place new medication containers in the lab. Local pharmacists Michael Hunt, Perry Kliewer, Michael Schmitz, and Ryan Woody kindly donated emptied bottles and packages of medications for several months. The lab was re-stocked with these emptied medication containers, many of which were filled using medications from the outdated bottles, donated medications or unused samples. Virtually all of the medications from the current list of the top 200 drugs were placed on the shelves. With the aid of Cara Morton (a senior student), Dr. Pray wrote several hundred new prescriptions featuring medications from the top 200. We tested the new format during Summer and Fall of 2003. We require students to fill prescriptions in an accelerated manner, a technique pioneered by Dr. Reichmann. The intent was always to allow them to gradually build upon skills learned in earlier lab sessions. They began with an introductory lab in which they fill six prescriptions. By the tenth lab, they fill 24 prescriptions. Some have built-in errors and omissions. By the end of the semester, they will have filled 154 prescriptions and created five compounds. The goal remains the same as it was during Dr. Reichmann's tenure: speed with accuracy.

Students were also required to serve in two locations. Each spent time at Wal-Mart in front of the counter to counsel patients about nonprescription products. It was an excellent chance to help patients, while having the security of the pharmacist for referral of difficult questions. Pharmacists heard several patients comment about how much they enjoyed having an informed person to render assistance with minor health care conditions. Students also served in the local Agape Free Clinic. As the volunteer Director of Pharmacy for the clinic, Dr. Pray arranged a time for each student to fill prescriptions. By the time they are enrolled in Pharmaceutics II lab, some students have not yet spoken to patients or filled prescriptions. These exercises allow them to build their confidence in relatively non-threatening environments and under the supervision of the pharmacists at Wal-Mart and Agape.

As the new lab is initiated, other practices may be possible. Dr. Pray has explored the possibility of phone-to-phone calling, allowing students to call each other for "readings." At some time, it may be possible to incorporate some aspects of on-line insurance adjudication to allow students to become familiar with this maddening aspect of practice.

A view of the completed Pharm Care 2 lab complete with state-of-the art fixtures and computers.

Dr. Shelly (Santa) Prince examines the holodeck look of the gutted pharmaceutics 3 lab before it was transformed into the Pharm Care 2 lab as seen in the above photograph.

New Faculty

Kristin Harrison is a new faculty member, serving at Integris Southwest Medical Center. Dr. Harrison graduated from Southwestern in 2002. She then completed a primary care residency at the Central Arkansas Veterans Healthcare System (CAVHS) in June 2003. She belongs to ACCP, OSHP, OSHP and Kappa Epsilon. Her teaching responsibilities will include internal medicine and cardiology.

Erin Callen is a new SWOSU pharmacy practice faculty member at Saint Anthony Hospital in Oklahoma City. She received her Pharm.D. from SWOSU in 2001 and completed a pharmacy practice residency at University Medical Center of Southern Nevada in 2002. She went on to finish an infectious diseases residency at the Department of Veterans Affairs Medical Center in Oklahoma City in July 2003. Currently, she is an active member of the Family Practice Residency Program at Saint Anthony Hospital, making daily rounds with the medicine team and providing pharmaceutical education to both physicians and

Our own Dr. Shelly Prince was awarded the Pharmacist's Mutual Outstanding Young Pharmacist of the Year Award by Mr. Terry Potter at the OPhA Convention this past summer. The youthful Dr. Prince has already written a calculations textbook, is a regular columnist in a national compounding journal, and was recognized last year as one the outstanding Kappa Epsilon sponsors in the entire nation. —Not too bad for such a young and bright professor, says The Sig.

Dr. David Ralph took the remaining "School of Pharmacy" seal lapel pins and constructed this mortar and pestle design. It will reside in the new College of Pharmacy museum.

Use Your Alumni Foundation Web Site www.southwesternpharmacy.com

The Southwestern Pharmacy Alumni Foundation web site continues to grow and expand its services. For all Southwestern alums, this site is the best way to keep up with the College (hey, we are not a school anymore), the faculty, and best of all, all your classmates. Organized by CE Director Patti Harper and managed by Associate Dean David Ralph, the site has all the latest information that every alumnus needs. There are sections on Continuing Education offerings from Southwestern, and you do have the ability to order online. By The Way, the address for the site is http://www.southwesternpharmacy.com. Another popular section is Faculty News. You can keep up with those denizens of the classroom and find out who the new faces are as well as what happened to the old guard. Patti makes sure there is a lot of local school news as well. If you have a child, friend, or former employee attending the College, this is the section where you might see their picture. For instance, we recently posted the Summer 2004 and Fall 2004 class photos on the site.

For most alumni, the most important and some say, most entertaining section is Alumni News. With our ability to update the news monthly, we give you the latest of what your classmates are up to. Here is where we can use your help. We need all our alumni to submit news concerning what they are doing: job/position changes, promotions, moving, kids, store openings, awards, special moments— well, just about anything pertaining to you and your life.

KE Trashes Faculty In Annual Basketball Game

In a game filled with dramatic confrontation of age and experience versus youth, drive, and determination, the KE ladies overwhelmed a cold-shooting faculty at the annual KE Vs Faculty Benefit Basketball game by a score of 55 KE to 50 Faculty. The red and white girls of KE came ready to play, drilling the basket on a regular basis from beyond the three-point line. The faculty rallied briefly before the end of the first half, but they were beaten back in the second half by a tenacious KE defense. One of the key faculty players from last year, Erin Callan, was out with motherhood, her first. Coach Bergman says the faculty will return in force in '05, having successfully recruited some younger faculty.

The rough and ready faculty basketball team still showing a lot of spunk after a grueling game that would have sent lesser souls to the ER. (I-r) first row: Dr. Barry Gales, Dr Edna Patatanian, Dr. David (Coach) Bergman. second row: Dr. David Ralph, Dr. Ben Welch, Dr. Virgil VanDusen. back row: Dr. Michael Deimling, Dr. Mark Gales, and Dr. Les Ramos.

Keith Reichmann Retires!

Keith Reichmann has been a beloved faculty member at Southwestern since 1973. However, students seldom got to know the fascinating story about how he got to our campus. He was enrolled in the optometry school at the University of Southern California when the Berlin Wall went up in 1961. President Kennedy initially wished to pursue a stringent policy, and the military looked at recalling former soldiers who knew German. It turns out that Keith had scored the top marks on the German examination in the entire 6th Army when he was in Basic Training before Optometry School. As a result, he was recalled to active duty in intelligence. Kennedy later decided not to press the Russians on the Berlin Wall, and Keith was reassigned to VietNam. He was loaded on the ship (his luggage had already been sent) when the military pulled the intelligence operatives from the ship and sent them to Texas. From there, he served in intelligence, speaking directly with Saigon about targets. He is one of the few VietNam veterans who never left the states.

He was discharged in August of 1962, but was unable to return to California because of pressing family concerns (one baby, and another on the way), even though they had held his spot open. His brother had just finished pharmacy school at the University of Utah, and Keith decided to follow that career path instead. He is fond of telling students that he never got an "A" in any undergraduate Pharmaceutics course (all "B"s, although he achieved all "A"s as a graduate student. While he was a senior undergraduate student, a faculty member at Utah died suddenly. The Dean asked if any of the students already had a degree. It turns out Keith had an earlier degree, and was hired as a faculty member his senior year. He taught Pharmaceutics Lectures and Labs and Pharmacognosy, Based on his teaching performance, the faculty persuaded him to attend graduate school, and he was accepted at the University of Colorado. He finished his Ph.D. in 1973. His dissertation research was in the area of non-aqueous emulsions. He developed and patented a formula that is still used in a popular cosmetic product. He also taught part-time for four years while he was in Colorado.

He had accepted a position at Hoffman/LaRoche upon his graduation, but former dean Walter Dickinson spoke to him about the many advantages of coming to Weatherford. Keith had served at Fort Sill, so he was familiar with western Oklahoma. He arrived in town in Fall of 1973 to find a college (we were still Southwestern State College then) with an enrollment of >5500, and pharmacy class sizes of 155-160. He has taught Dispensing II Lectures and Labs, History of Pharmacy, Pharmaceutics I and II, Dispensing I, and taught Surgical Appliances since 1979. He published a paper on the Symbols of Pharmacy, and was a consultant for Max Factor for many years. Among his professional interests are osteoporosis, fitting surgical appliances, ostomies, nonaqueous emulsions, and pharmaceutical compounding. The hand lotion he developed has been a popular moisturizer among faculty, staff, students, and visitors for over 15 years.

He sponsored Kappa Epsilon for fourteen years, the College Republicans for 3-4 years, and the Latter Day Saints Student Association for 10 years. He has also had a busy record as a volunteer for various causes. He was associated with the Boy Scouts for 44 years in 3-4 different states. His record was so distinguished that he was awarded the Silver Beaver, the highest award the Boy Scout Council can give for service. He has worked for Rotary for many years, and was named a Paul Harris Fellow, Rotary's highest award for community service. He has been an American Cancer Society volunteer for 25-30 years and is an 8 gallon blood donor. He was Santa Claus for over 35 years at churches, school, Kappa Epsilon parties, and for faculty members' children. My own children looked forward to visits from the "real" Santa to their own front room in 1986-1988 when they were 3-7 years old.

Keith's wife Lu was hired in the nursing program in 1976. She founded the program and was a faculty member there until her retirement in 2000. Keith and Lu plan to travel through the Midwest and West for several months. Keith will fish far more than he has been able to until now, and will write a family history. He will read and watch videos. He enjoys photography, trains, and World War II history, and collects stamps, mainly first-class U.S. commemoratives.

Keith and Lu have three children: Sheila is a pharmacy graduate (married to a pharmacist), and is working at Kroger in Dallas. Doug is a computer expert, employed by Safeway in San Jose, California. Suzy is a C.P.A. in Purcell. Their grandchildren are their pride and joy: Hannah (6), Logan (5), Erin (3), and Jillian (2) (ages are as of May, 2004).

Keith says forcefully that we have the best student body he has ever seen, and that he will put our faculty up against any pharmacy school faculty in the nation.

The completely remodeled Pharm Care 1 lab. This lab is the new version of the old Preps 1 or compounding lab.

Workers prepare to install new energy-efficient windows and walls on the south side of the middle wing. Yes, it was completely open.

Pharm Care 1 Laboratory Remodeled

Pharm Care 1 lab, known to older alumni as the preps 1 or compounding lab has been totally remodeled to a state-ofthe art facility. The drug inventory has been modernized, and a new computer network was installed on top of the dramatic "Southwestern blue" cabinets. Dr. Shelly Prince, assisted by Dean David Bergman and Associate Dean David Ralph. oversaw the process. The new laboratory opened for business January 2004. Pharm Care 2 lab still features a great deal of hands-on compounding taught by Dr. Prince, one of the nation's leading compounding experts and regular columnist in of the prominent compounding journals. More patient counseling is included as part of the laboratory. Old Dispensing Laboratory Reborn

Thanks to hard work by Associate Dean David Ralph, and Drs Virgil VanDusen, Shelly Prince, and Steve Pray, the old dispensing lab or "Preps III" lab to many alums has been redesigned and reopened for business. The new facility features state-of-the art computer, telephone, and sound system. In addition, there are two computer stations solely devoted to online database searching. Every student working in the lab has his/her own computer station. While accurate dispensing with speed is still emphasized, counseling on each prescription is a lab mandate.

The new Pharm Care 1 lab is covered with plastic to protect it during the window and wall replacement.

A rare view of the famous soda fountain backdrop with the top part off, soon to be the centerpiece of the new College of Pharmacy museum. Local craftsman Dennis Colwell cleaned and beautifully refinished the piece, which has a history going back to the covered wagon days of early Oklahoma.

Van Dusen Selected for National Academic Leadership Fellows Program

The American Association of Colleges of Pharmacy (AACP) has selected Virgil Van Dusen, R.Ph., J.D., Professor of Pharmacy Administration in the College of Pharmacy, to participate in the charter class of the Academic Leadership Fellows Program.

The yearlong faculty development program in health professions education is to develop the nation's most promising pharmacy faculty in becoming future leaders in pharmaceutical and higher education. Supported in part by a grant from Pfizer, the Fellows program was developed in response to the needs of AACP membership.

"Academic pharmacy has been fortunate in that leaders have risen from our colleges and schools throughout our history to address and solve the many challenges facing academic pharmacy," said Lucinda L. Maine, Ph.D., AACP executive vice president. "We see these challenges continuing and increasing in intensity, necessitating more proactive leadership and effective management throughout the academy."

Dr. Van Dusen received a Bachelor of Science degree in pharmacy from Southwestern and a Juris Doctor from the University of Tulsa. His pharmacy practice experience includes work in hospital and retail pharmacy. He has also been actively engaged in the practice of law.

Dr. Van Dusen began with Southwestern in 1989 as a clinical pharmacy instructor and moved to the pharmaceutical sciences division in 1994.

As a professor he teaches pharmacy law, professional ethics and serves as an instructor in the pharmaceutical care laboratories. He has authored over 20 professional journal articles and has given more than 75 invited presentations.

Dr. Van Dusen currently serves Southwestern as the chair of the Intellectual Property committee. In the College of Pharmacy he is a member of the awards and curriculum committees. His involvement in the community includes service on the Board of Education as well as president of the Weatherford Soccer Club.

Students Selected for Prestigious Posts in National Organizations

Two College of Pharmacy students were selected to fill posts in national organizations. Ginger A. Raley was notified by The National Community Pharmacists Association of her selection as a member of the 2003-2004 NCPA Student Regional Council (SRC). Her charge is to provide the Student Affairs Department of NCPA with leadership in developing new NCPA chapters and also to help existing NCPA chapters thrive.

Jan Granados was asked to serve the American Society of Health—System Pharmacists through her selection as a student member of the Council on Organizational Affairs. She was commissioned to participate in ASHP's Legislative Day activities, which gave an insightful look into ASHP programs to provide information for federal lawmakers.

Both students were leaders of their student organizations prior to their selection for these offices. Their recognition by these prestigious organizations demonstrates the value of student involvement in our professional organizations.
